MOURNS LOSS OF
THREE FRIENDSCapt. J. K. Gowdy Deeply Grieved
Over Tragic Death of W. T.
Stead, London Editor.

KNEW TITANIC CAPTAIN WELL

Recalls Incident in Paris Causing Him to Revere Benjamin Guggenheim, Multimillionaire.

Possibly no one read with greater horror and deeper regret the accounts of the greatest ocean disaster the world has ever known, than has Capt. John K. Gowdy, at his home at 619 North Perkins street. In the seclusion of his study, he has perused the columns of the newspapers from day to day to learn the truth, and not until yesterday, when the Carpathia, ambulance of the sea, shrouded in the mystic, grim silence, lay at her dock in the New York harbor, did Capt. Gowdy know for certain that three of the friends that had come into his life while he was consul general to Paris, and whom he had revered, had been three of the sixteen hundred and thirty-five who paid the awful toll to one of the sea's greatest menaces.

During his consulate at Paris—Capt. Gowdy served during McKinley's administration and the first term of Roosevelt's—the grand old man became acquainted with some of the foremost characters of the world. Two of these were victims of the Titanic disaster. The other, although he may not be one of the world's best known men, he is now held an international hero, as he lies at the bottom of the sea, a lifeless body.

For Capt. E. J. Smith, commander of the ill-fated Titanic, Capt. Gowdy held the highest respect; for Benjamin Guggenheim, the multimillionaire owner of mines, Mr. Gowdy had the deepest regard, and for W. T. Stead, the famous London editor and author, the venerable old man of Rushville had the greatest reverence. They are all three at the bottom of the ocean. They were all friends of Capt. Gowdy, well and intimately known by him.

"Capt. Smith was commanding the Baltic," said Capt. Gowdy last evening, while in the seclusion of his study, "when my wife, my daughter, Fanny, and myself, sailed to America in 1905. We set sail at Liverpool October 4. We became well acquainted with the venerable captain, as we ate at his table, my daughter, Fanny, living a seat next to his. We were returning from Paris.

"He was a most lovable character. From his actions then I judged he was a man of great care and precaution. He took interest in the welfare of his passengers. From Saturday until Monday during our voyage, the sea was very rough, and many a vessel docked at New York in bad repair, but nothing ever happened to the Baltic.

"I distinctly recall that I was on deck on that eventful Sunday afternoon about three o'clock, and I glanced up and saw Capt. Smith on the bridge. His erect carriage and his noble bearing made him a most inspiring figure. He looked at me, shook his head and smiled. He meant get in, and I got. I took the silent command.

"Especially am I deeply grieved over the loss of W. T. Stead, the celebrated owner and editor of the Review of Reviews of London. He wrote an article soon after the close of the Spanish-American war on the subject, 'To Americanize Europe.' In a few months I met him at a banquet at Paris which was given by the American Chamber of Commerce. In his toast he referred to the article. He emphasized the thought, that, in his judgment, Europe would be Americanized.

"He was most enthusiastically received by the banqueters, especially by the Americans. I am not surprised that he wanted to come to America, for he loved America and her people. I see he was on his way here to give some speeches in the Men and Religion Forward Movement."

Capt. Gowdy related an incident which brought Benjamin Guggenheim into his life while in Paris. The wealthy mine owner used his means to good advantage, and willingly, on one occasion, thus showing his goodness of heart, and Capt. Gowdy always clung to his friendship with the greatest tenacity. Mr. Gowdy relates the incident as follows:

"In 1901 the American Show Company, which advertised it was an exact counterpart of Buffalo Bill's wild west show was traveling in Paris and other French cities. The company was stranded in Grenoble, France, and appealed to the American consul, Charles P. Nason—who by the way, is still consul there—for assistance. There were seventy-five in the troupe, including the actors and their families.

"Consul Nason wired and wrote me of their plight and asked me to solicit funds from Americans in Paris to feed the showmen, who, he said, were all Americans, homesick and discouraged. Quite a number of actors cabled home for funds, and returned to New York. I solicited aid from Americans in Paris and several hundred dollars was raised in this manner. There were still about forty left who could get no money from home with which to return, and our government will not allow any consul to pay such expenses for any American citizen.

"Benjamin Guggenheim, who was then in Paris, read my appeal in the Paris edition of the New York Herald, came to the consulate and inquired for me. 'I have just read your appeal for stranded showmen in Grenoble, France,' he said, 'can you give me an estimate of how much, in addition to what you already have, it will require to send them home, men, women and children. I was expecting a liberal contribution and I told him it would take $2400. He asked me for my check book and wrote out a check, payable to me, for the $2400.

"To me this was an inspiration, and I thanked him sincerely on behalf of the stranded people. I shall never forget the expression on his face when he said to me: 'It gives me more pleasure to give you this money for them than it does you to receive it.'

"Remembering Mr. Guggenheim's voluntary visit and liberal donation for this purpose as I do, causes me to mourn most sincerely his tragic death."

TRUTH ABANDONED
IN LATEST RUMOROfficials Say Harris Verdict Is Not on File and no Arrests Have Been Made.

MAY LEARN HOW ALL STARTED

Stories that Coroner A. G. Shauck had filed his verdict in the Harris mystery case, and that arrests had been made, were heard on every hand last night and this morning. Officials of the court assured those who inquired that nothing of the sort had occurred. An investigation was conducted today to learn, if possible, where some of the tales originated. The coroner stated yesterday afternoon in so many words that "there would be nothing doing until next week." The special session of the grand jury will convene Monday, as will the April term of the Rush circuit court.

CHARGES ABUSE OF TRUST

Declares Wallace Morgan Refused to Carry Out Orders—Grand Jury
Meets Monday.

Prosecuting Attorney Dennis O'Neil is going to run the sixteenth judicial district a little while himself.

Late this afternoon he filed in the circuit court a revocation of the appointment of Wallace Morgan as deputy prosecuting attorney. He gave for his reasons that the deputy had failed to abide by his wishes in the Seward saloon license case, and in investigating crimes and misdemeanors.

The revocation, coming as it does on the eve of the opening of the April term of the circuit court, and the special session of the grand jury, is significant. It reveals that Dennis will no longer be sat upon by the Democratic wheelhorses who have been in abeyance.

The next grand jury will be a most important one. It is highly probable that the Harris mystery will be investigated. It appears that Dennis would like to get hand in some of the workings of the grand jury, since he waited until this late in the day to take the unusual step.

The opening of the court Monday promises an enlivening bit of scrapping among Democratic leaders. It is understood that Wallace Morgan, who has been acting in O'Neil's stead slipped down to Shelbyville one day when Dennis was not looking and procured a special commission from Judge Blair to act as special prosecutor to conduct the probe of the grand jury in case it was called on to look into the Harris case.

At the opening of the last term of court, when the grand jury was in session, it was rumored a movement was on foot to remove Dennis O'Neil from office. It started in Democratic circles. After the report became public, the Democratic wheelhorses counseled together, and decided Dennis might keep his job if he would mind what they said. So Wallace Morgan began to be prosecuting attorney then and there, what time John Cheney, the deputy in Shelby county, was not up here. Here's what Dennis has to say about his deputy:

I, Dennis O'Neil, prosecuting attorney for the sixteenth judicial circuit in the State of Indiana, of which the county of Rush forms a part, do hereby revoke the appointment and commission wherein I appointed Wallace Morgan deputy prosecuting attorney in and for said circuit for the following reasons to-wit:

1. For the reason that said Morgan has maliciously and perniciously abused the trust I confided in him when I appointed him as deputy prosecutor.

2. For the reason because he did not investigate at my request the causes for which the license of Basil Seward was revoked by the county board of commissioners, and ascertain whether he had a legal right to operate a saloon, but instead of which he accepted a retainer fee from said Seward.

3. For the reason that he has failed and refused to carry out my orders as prosecuting attorney in the examination into various crimes and misdemeanors, and in failure to make prosecutions therein.

CLOSING CAMPAIGN SESSION

Indianapolis Minister Talks in Optomistic Vein of Needs Among Men—The Trouble.

Dr. F. E. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist church, Indianapolis, pleaded for more personal work among Christian men in his address on evangelization at the closing session of the Men and Religion Forward Movement three days campaign at the First Presbyterian church last night.

Men—and there was a good crowd of them—were very much impressed by the exhortations of Dr. Taylor. His energy, his keen and concise thoughts and his wonderful devotion to the cause which prevailed his whole discourse, appealed to men. The closing session was conceded by many to be the best of the lot.

Dr. Taylor is an optimist. He expressed the belief that Christianity is not sliding back but is going forward. He repeated a statement of a man who was competent to know that there are three times as many people attending church now as there were fifty and a hundred years ago. I never believed God's kingdom would not progress, he added, for we are on an upward trend. He said by more than two to one the college men of the country are enlisted in the cause of Christianity, which means the young blood is being infused into the work.

Dr. Taylor told of several New York men who retired to Princeton in seclusion to determine, if possible, just what the trouble with religion is. He said they reached five conclusions, the first of which was; there is a want of definite reason for religious convictions. That means, Dr. Taylor said, it is quite the popular thing to have an opinion rather than a conviction.

The second conclusion, he said, was that there is a want of more actual experience of Jesus Christ as a reality in the lives of men. Dr. Taylor asserted that religion was too much of a Sunday affair. These men found, he pointed out that men should work at the business all week, and not wait until they get in their pew.

The third conclusion was the insufficiency and unnoticeableness of any vivid distinction between men in the church and men out of the church. No unsaved man should ever have the right to say that he is as good as the man in the church, Dr. Taylor asserted, although such may be the case some times.

The fourth conclusion was the tendency of over-organization. Dr. Taylor had some rather sarcastic things to say about brotherhoods and other men's organization, unless they were inspired by the word of God.

"If they haven't the red blood of Jesus Christ flowing through them," Dr. Taylor declared, "they will die, and they should. I see men's organizations made with a banquet and a big lot of speeches. Officers are elected, and that's the end of that. The funeral is next. Before long here comes another fellow with the big idea, and the same process is gone through. And perhaps a few church socials are held—and nothing is so cheap as a church social unless it is inspired by the right thing."

The last conclusion was the want of a great and commanding spiritual objective. He told of an assertion of

JURY LIKELY TO DISAGREENo Decision Reached, in Price Case

WERE NOT RE-INSTRUCTED

Murder Case at Greensburg Concluded Last Evening—Instructions Said to Favor Defendant.

From all indications the jury at Greensburg, which has the fate of Zachariah Price, brother of Will Price of this city, under consideration, will disagree. The jury has been out since 5:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon and late today had not reached a verdict.

It was expected that the jury would ask to be re-instructed after being out so long and not reaching a verdict, but this was not done and the chances are that the jury will be dismissed by Judge Wickens. That the jury is very likely to disagree gives a faint idea of how hotly the case was contested by both the State and Price's attorneys. After being out almost twenty-four hours and not a word from the jury points to a disagreement. Attorneys for both sides were very confident last night and this morning and were hoping against a disagreement. As the hours wore on and not a word from the jury it looked almost certain that Price would have another trial.

Judge Wickens finished reading his instructions to the jury at 5:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the jurors immediately retired to the jury room to begin their deliberations. It is estimated several ballots were taken before the supper hour as they did not ask for supper until 6:30 o'clock.

The instructions of Judge Wickens were brief and were thought by many to favor the defense. The plea of Price was self-defense. On this Judge Wickens said: "The law of self-defense is founded on necessity and in order to justify or excuse the taking of life upon this ground it must appear that the slayer had reason to believe and did believe that he was in imminent danger of his life or of receiving great bodily harm; and it must also appear that he believed in good faith that in order to avoid such danger it was necessary for him to take the life of the deceased.

"The danger of losing life or receiving great bodily harm must be real or honestly believed to be so, at the time and on reasonable grounds; the danger must be apparent and imminent and existing at the very time or believed to be so and on reasonable grounds.

"Upon the issue of self defense, the real question in the case is this: Was the defendant under all circumstances shown in evidence, justified in the use of a deadly weapon at the time he fired the fatal shot, was he without fault and did the defendant believe and did he in good faith have reason to believe his life in danger?"

TO ATTEND INSTALLATION.

The Rev. W. H. Wylie, pastor of the St. Paul M. E. church left today for Evanston, Ill., to attend the installation of the new president of Northwestern University. The Rev. Mr. Wylie was appointed by the church as a conference visitor. He is a graduate of the seminary at Northwestern. Preston Hyde, a missionary to India will fill the pulpit here Sunday in the absence of the Rev. Mr. Wylie.

Today Were Expected.

3 DIFFERENT SETS NAMED

Today the Democrats of Rush county selected in ten townships the delegates to the congressional, joint-senatorial and county conventions. Delegates to the same conventions were named in Rushville and Ripley townships last night.

"There will be no contests in any of the delegations," said Sam Trabue, Democratic county chairman, this morning. "The whole county is for the renomination of Finly Gray, the present congressman. I believe every delegate to the congressional convention will vote for the return of Mr. Gray. And there is no chance for a contest in the joint-senatorial delegation, as there is only one candidate. He is a good man, and I believe they will all line up for him. There never is a contest in naming delegates to the county convention."

BANQUET AND SPEECHES

Anderson Lodge No. 1, Camels of the World, was instituted amid impressive and pretentious ceremonies last evening at the town house of the Anderson Country club, says the Anderson Herald. Stirring addresses were delivered by the officers and others interested in the welfare of the new organization.

One hundred and twenty-seven charter members were initiated last evening. The charter membership will be somewhat larger before the list is closed, as the officers announced last evening that the same would be held open for a week at least. The New Lodge is planning to have another initiation next week, at which time they expect to take in at least fifty more members.

Immediately following the initiation speeches were made by James E. Watson of Rushville and a number of others. A banquet was served.

PLAN AFOOT TO GET BIEDERWOLFAnnounced at Open Conference Yesterday as Part of Statewide Evangelistic Campaign.

MAY BE STARTED IN THIS CITY

Question of Politics Interfering is Interjected—Executive Committee of Committee 100 to Decide

Plans are afoot to bring Dr. Biederwolf, who has few peers in the evangelistic field to Rushville for a revival which will be countrywide in its scope, and which will be the first of the series to extend all over Indiana, and to be felt in every corner of the Hoosier domain.

The plans were announced at the open conference following yesterday afternoon's session of the Men and Religion Forward Movement campaign by Dr. E. L. Williams and Dr. F. E. Taylor, both of Indianapolis. Many ministers from the churches in the other towns in the county were present and concurred in the movement.

The plan of the conference, adopted after debates and suggestions of a half hour, was to put the matter squarely before the executive committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement for its indorsement. In case it was indorsed by this committee, it is the plan for the proposition to be placed before the committee of one hundred of the Men and Religion Forward Movement and the churches of Rush county, each to be represented by its minister and one layman member.

The plan would be to make Rushville the center of all activities. The smaller towns where the campaign would be carried on are designated as red centers. It would be the intention to hold sub-revivals in Carthage, Milroy and Arlington—they being the three largest towns in Rush county—in conjunction with the meeting in Rushville.

These meetings would be conducted by evangelists in Dr. Biederwolf's corps of workers. It would be a part of the plan, also, to reach the farthest corners of the county by using the "Flying Squadron" methods, which have been adopted here before.

The explanation of the plan by the Indiana churchmen showed it to be similar in some respects to the one used by Dr. Orr here last June. It provides for a tabernacle—but it was pointed out the coliseum could be used here—and for a farmers' day similar to one held here, when the farmers and their wives came in and ate their dinners in the tabernacle. It also provides for Sunday school parades and other features used here.

There was some hesitancy at first on the part of the local ministers, in view of the fact that a revival was held here last June, and another was planned for February, 1913. And the question of the political campaign interfering was interjected. The time of the year was suggested as a drawback. October was the time planned for this meeting.

Some men believed that the season would be good in so far as farmers were concerned. Some were convinced the interest in the political campaign, which promises to be so furious, would detract from the meeting. Several ministers spoke. They believed they should not stand back because it would be presidential year.

"We should make it of such scope and intensity," said the Rev. J. B. Meacham, "that it would make politics sit up and take notice. I see no reason why we should hesitate in this regard. It will do politics no harm."

Efforts are being made to force Justice Hughes into the campaign, but who would shake hands with the crowds from Eastport to San Diego, when he can sit up behind the bench in a black night gown and hear the other fellows talk?

Congress never does much in the session before election because the fences have to be repaired, nor in the session after, because it would be forgotten by the next election if they did.

Life preservers stuffed with straw can be disposed of all right in ordinary times, but just now would be an inopportune occasion to work them off on the market.

People leave the city to escape the smoke nuisance, and when they get out into the country they complain of tramps, but they might as well die by the sword as by the pestilence.

Amateur wireless operators interfered with getting word from the Titanic, but some people say that boys will be boys and young people must be permitted to amuse themselves.

Tennyrate there was no use in ruthlessly sacrificing men's lives just to observe that rule of the sea, "women and children first." That is a fine sentiment, one which pervades any Christianized nation, but after the women and children were all in, it might not have been a bad idea to take a few of the men where there was room—and survivors say there was room in some boats.

But Knightstown Woman Was Not Going Until June.

Mrs. Rebecca G. Morgan of Knightstown, who left Philadelphia last week, had engaged passage on the ill-fated Titanic for a trip abroad in June. Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Joseph Swain of Swarthmore, Pa., were to have sailed together on the Titanic, and Dr. Swain and his sister were to go abroad later. They were all to return together. Whether the disaster to the Titanic will involve any change in Mrs. Morgan's contemplated trip is not yet known to her relatives, although it is probable they will not abandon the tour, but take passage on another vessel.

The New theater's famous production of the "Blue Bird," the exquisite fantasy by Maeterlinck, will be presented at the Shubert Murat theater, Indianapolis, for one week starting Monday, April 22, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

No recent play has made quite so profound a sensation in America or Europe; with its beautiful philosophy, rare humor and pathos, it has charmed playgoers of all ages and all countries. In New York, where it was produced at the New theater, this so-called literary drama, scored the greatest popular success of the

SAFE REMEDY ENDS CATARRH MISERIES

Gives Instant Relief, Cures and Prevents Catarrh and Cold in The Head.

The quickest, best and safest way to cure catarrh or a cold in the head is by using a remedy that will "touch the spot" and do its work quickly without leaving any bad effects. Ely's Cream Balm, which is applied to the nostrils or rubbed on the throat or chest gets right at the root of the trouble and instantly relieves even the worst case of catarrh or cold. A few minutes after applied you can feel a loosening up in the head, the pain and soreness are gone, the sense of taste, smell and hearing come back, and you feel like a different person.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, heals and strengthens the inflamed membranes, takes away that stuffed up feeling and dull pain in the head, relieves the throat soreness and stops the cause of the disgusting hawking, spitting, blowing of the nose, and foul breath. Hay fever victims who are made miserable by fits of sneezing, coughing and wheezing get instant and permanent relief by the use of this simple remedy.

Don't suffer another minute. Ely's Cream Balm will relieve you immediately, and a 50 cent bottle will more than likely work a complete cure. All druggists sell it.

season, attaining a run of 268 performances. In England, France, Germany and Austria, it has met with the same huge success, while in Russia fifty-two different companies are now playing it throughout the provinces.

This season a number of innovations from the London, Paris, Berlin and Moscow productions have been added to the original New theater production, better to interpret the symbolism and poetry of the piece.

Indeed, so carefully has the drama been staged, to bring out all the fanciful flights of the poet's imagination, and to make vivid his wonderful descriptions, that the New theater production of "The Blue Bird" is probably the most marvelous bit of stage craft that has ever been witnessed. Certainly no scenes have yet been conceived that can compare in beauty and compelling weirdness with "The Palace of Night," "The Kingdom of the Past," "The Land of Happiness" and the other lands born of the poet's imagination, where Mytil and Tytle have their adventures.

In "The Blue Bird" Maeterlinck has revealed a new and comforting philosophy of life, expressing it through the light and delicate fancy of the pursuit by two children of the blue bird, the symbol of happiness. They are accompanied on their journey by "Bread," a jolly grotesque individual; "Milk," a beautiful, timid creature; "Water," a flowing, sylph-like girl; "Fire," a hissing tempestuous youth; "Sugar," a silly chap with candy hands; the faithful "Dog," the sly, scheming "Cat" and other things and animals embodied in human form by the magic of fairy Berylune.

So intricate are the various scenic effects that nearly a year was spent in the preparation of them. Beauty, fantasy, wisdom, humor and a delightful tenderness are all blended into one.

"The Blue Bird" brings tears to the eyes and then chases them away with laughter; plunges you in reverie and then startles you with some joyous surprise. Children and those who like to take their amusement lightly, derive infinite pleasure from the amusing action and witty sayings of things and animals turned into human beings. To those who look deeper, however, the author has furnished a bottomless well of mysticism, romance and inspiring symbolism.

Particular attention will be given to out-of-town orders; mail orders with remittances and self-addressed stamped envelope will receive prompt attention. All orders should be addressed to Manager Shubert Murat Theater, Indianapolis.

John M. Schenck, Fountaintown, Ind., recommends Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. He says "I was troubled with asthma about four years, so bad I could not sleep. I took everything I heard of for asthma and doctored also but got no relief until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It helped me from the first dose, and the continued use cured me. It is now a long time since I was cured, and I have no symptoms of a return of the disease." F. B. Johnson & Co., Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

PLAN A FOOT TO GET BIEDERWOLF

and I do not believe it will harm politics. I believe when the opportunity comes to get such a man as Biederwolf, we should grasp it. Such things are not afforded a town the size of Rushville often."

His sentiment was that of many of the ministers and laymen and it was finally agreed the question should be presented to the several bodies for indorsement as soon as possible, and then begin arrangements at once for the meeting.

The Indianapolis ministers explained that the movement was to be Statewide. The Hoosier campaign was presented to a body of Indianapolis' most influential men in all the walks of life at a meeting at the other night, according to Dr. Taylor. He said the plan received the most hearty indorsement of Indianapolis laymen of all classes. Immediately subscriptions were made of a hundred dollars each by several men to pay the incidental expenses of the campaign.

According to the Indianapolis men who were here, Dr. Biederwolf, although he has calls from all over the country, has consented to devote his time to a Statewide Indiana campaign, because he is a Hoosier by birth. He is anxious to get into the fray, they said.

Dr. Taylor said that he indorsed this movement most heartily, because it offered a definite plan for the churches of Indianapolis when the committee of one hundred is disbanded in June. Before that comes to pass, he said, an effort would be made to federate the churches of Indianapolis in a solid working organization.

Dr. Taylor said he indorsed very few evangelists, because he was not in sympathy with evangelists who are simply out after the coin. He added further that he had no patience with the practice of raising large sums of money for evangelists. They must be good, clean, sincere men, he said, for my indorsement.

Large Farm Proposition

We have placed in our hands for sale one of the finest farm plantations in the South. It contains

2865 ACRES OF FINE TILLABLE LAND

1565 acres now under high state of cultivation, balance in fine timber. Two large plantation houses, one of 14 rooms and one of 5 rooms. There are 32 tenant houses, suitable for tenants to live in; one good saw mill, large stables, and shedding for stock, cattle and mules; one large commissary store building. This body of land is on a line of railroad, in a good healthy section of the state. It has been in the family for many years, and is considered

One of the Best Plantations in the South

The lands under cultivation raise fine corn, oats, alfalfa (5 crops per year) hay grass, potatoes, both sweet and white, peanuts, and in fact, nearly everything a farmer would want; fine berries of all kinds; fruit of all kinds does well.

This Is One of the Finest Locations in Mississippi

we have ever put on the market. It is suitable to be divided into tracts of 160 acre farms, which would make nearly 18 farms of this size, a splendid settlement for a few families who would like to go south and live among themselves as a community of Northern settlers. The lands are so situated as would give each family a part cleared and a part timber land.

The Price is $37.50 Per Acre with all buildings, mills and so on thrown in. Parties may have from 5 to 10 years upon two-thirds of the price. We would be pleased to have a good set of active farmers to take this proposition up and consider it. We would be willing to go down with you and go over the land, that you may satisfy yourselves of the fine location. This body of land will not be cut up. It must be all sold at once, and the purchasers may divide it to suit themselves.

If you are interested and want to get lands at a low price, land that will go up in value,

This is the Finest Proposition We Have Ever Offered and it will not last long. These lands are good high lands, dry and ready for farming at all times. The section is the best in the state. It is within twenty-five miles of Jackson, the capitol of the state. Other settlements of northern farmers who have settled there, are all doing fine and since they located and introduced the northern system of General Farming, their lands have advanced from $40 to $80 and $100 per acre. There is no such a thing as crop failure. When you seed a crop, you are assured of success. You can work out doors every day in the year in a good healthy climate.

MAKE UP A CLUB of a dozen or so of good young farmers and appoint two or three of them as a committee to go down and look it over with us, and if you purchase it all expenses will be deducted from the purchase money. It is the best large body of good land we have ever offered.

LINE FENCE FIGHT CLAIMS VICTIM

Emory Vaughn of Near Dunreith Stabs Neighbor, Frank Saul, After Quarrel.

SELF DEFENSE, SAYS FORMER

When Saul and Son Began to Build Fence, Vaughn Appeared and Fight Ensued.

The line fence claimed another victim when Emory Vaughn and Frank Saul, two well known residents of Dunreith, became involved in a heated quarrel. Vaughn suddenly drew a knife and sent the blade into Saul's side twice. He calmly put up the weapon and returned to his home.

Saul was able to walk to his home which was but a short distance from the scene of the cutting and Dr. Bartlett and Dr. Blair of Lewisville were called. Saul is not believed to be badly injured.

A son of the wounded man went to Newcastle on the next interurban car and filed an affidavit in the circuit court against Vaughn charging him with assault and battery with intent to murder by stabbing.

There probably will be other charges filed. Vaughn says Frank Saul had drawn back a shovel with the exclamation, "Get away from here, you, or I'll kill you." As he uttered these words it is alleged Saul drew back to deliver a terrific blow with the shovel. Vaughn said, "Then I used my knife."

Vaughn does not deny a single thing in connection with the case, and the fact that he voluntarily went to Newcastle and surrendered is a point in his favor. Saul is still under the care of physicians, but it is hardly believed that the wounds will result seriously, as they were inflicted with a pocket knife.

Saul and Vaughn each claimed the line on the other a trespasser. Some time ago Saul asked Vaughn to build the line fence. He refused to do so, it is said. Saul and his son then began building the fence yesterday morning on the disputed ground. While the son was at the house after a pair of gloves Vaughn, it is charged, appeared and ordered Saul off the land. Saul stood his ground and received two knife thrusts.

There were but few witnesses to the transaction but it was pretty generally known that the two men had for some time been involved in trouble over the building of a line fence.

THE FAMOUS HOOSIER CABINET

ONE DOLLAR

The "Silent" Servant

After you study the above picture you will not wonder that women are anxious to join the Hoosier Club, when by so doing they have a Hoosier Cabinet delivered to their homes on payment of only $1.00.

Think of the hundreds of needless steps every woman you know could save by having her table, pantry, and cupboard, with all her tools and supplies centered in one spot.

Your energy instead of being wasted is saved, and the time spent in your kitchen—the least pleasant part of your work—is reduced by one-half, the moment this famous Hoosier Cabinet comes into your home.

The Hoosier Company sends its 3,000 agents a limited number of Hoosier Cabinets each year to be sold under direct supervision of the factory on the famous Hoosier Club plan.

This year most cities received only 15 cabinets. Our urgent request secured us 25 of these cabinets for the ladies of Rushville.

Only 25 women, therefore, can join the club and have a Hoosier Cabinet delivered immediately on payment of $1.00; balance in a few weekly payments of $1.00. 11 have already enrolled.

The Club Plan differs radically from the installment plan which often is linked with high prices and unknown goods. The low price of the Hoosier Cabinet is fixed everywhere by the factory. No Hoosier Agent can sell for less or more on any terms.

So club members get a great benefit from the liberal club terms. The club probably will be filled very quickly. Those who want Hoosier Cabinets should enroll their names at once.

JOHN LEE TELLS OF NEW YORK SCENES

Local Man, One of Thousands at Pier When Titanic Survivors Land From Carpathia.

HEART RENDING CONDITIONS

John M. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lee, writes that he was one of the interested spectators at the opening of the pier when the survivors of the Titanic disaster landed from the Carpathia. He says it was a terrible scene and one that is next to impossible to describe. Mr. Lee writes that he and John Link, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Link, and Tom Geraghty of the New York Herald have been taking in some of the sights of New York. Mr. Lee declares that all New York is astounded by the horrible sea disaster, that people talk of nothing else, and that thousands are to be found in front of newspaper offices almost continually watching for bulletins concerning the disaster.

APPROPRIATION IS ASKED FOR BOILERS

County Council in Session All Day Accomplishes Nothing and Must Return.

BUDGET WILL BE OVER $3,000

The county council was in session all day today, but nothing was accomplished and the council will have to return at a later date to finish up the business. According to Auditor Stone, it would be necessary for the council to return anyway, because the law provides when more than $3,000 is appropriated, it is binding on the council to be in session for two days. And the council will appropriate more than that amount, according to the auditor.

The commissioners did as they contemplated yesterday, asked for an appropriation of $1,200 for new boilers in the county heating plant. The stumbling block which the council met with today was the appropriations for bridges.

noted New Yorkers which he asked every man to remember. It was: "Christ did not put us here to save a doctrine or enjoy religion." Dr. Taylor had several things to say about men who place doctrines above all.

"There is a different atmosphere now than there was twenty-five years ago," continued Dr. Taylor. "Then a Christian young man was considered a weakling. But in the last quarter of a century things have changed mightily. The Y. M. C. A. has pushed its work and other organizations have worked toward a certain goal—that Christianity be considered a manly thing, and is coming to be thought of as such.

"It never was easier to reach men with the Gospel of Jesus Christ than it is today. How many of you men ever thought of that before? And I am going to make a startling assertion here, but I can prove it, it is easier to reach men than it is women."

The first reason for the latter condition, he said, is because accepting Christianity is being made a manly thing, and the reason so many men are not lined up right is because they are not men enough. He said the truth about skeptics in religion was just that thing.

The second reason for Christianity appealing to men, Dr. Taylor declared it says little about getting a man into heaven nowadays. He alluded to the pillar saints of the churches of today, who never pray and who never have anything to do. "The least thing a man does," added Dr. Taylor, "is to pay his pew rent."

The third reason, he said, was because Christianity is beginning to appeal to the heroic side of a man's life.

The Indianapolis minister closed by giving three needs among men. The first was, win the young men because seventy-five per cent. of them never swing through a church door. The second was, do away with the appalling impurity that exists among men. The third was, do away with the condition which causes a passionless ministry and an indifferent pew.
